An excellent class and very consistent. High SO2 levels does provide challenges, but pure, exotic and textured wines were all rewarded. More of these wines should be consumed...lovely.

Judges Comments:

Somewhat lacklustre class. More subtle use of oak required and some wines pushing the boundaries of funk too far. Better wines showed purity and acid balance.

Two silvers are clean fresh examples of the varieties in WA. There was a feeling fruit exuded too many ripe fruit characters.

Judges Comments:

Not surprisingly a very consistent class of light to medium weighted fragrant wines. Ferment issues crept into the mix in many no- awarded wines. Purity of expression and generosity stood out at the top of the class.

Two top examples of youthful and fresh rose, being true to their distinctive style. Far too many dull wines appearing to be made as an afterthought.

Terrific class. Wines from the vintage, whilst unyielding when young, are now showing more generosity.

Some very good wines showing strong varietal character and finesse, however many a little forward and showing green characters. Ripeness, texture and freshness attracted the medals.

A very strong class of wines with three top examples of varying style. Better wines showed complexity, careful use of quality oak and made with overall elegance. Many bronze medal winners just short of silver status.

International judge noted that wines tend to highlight winemaking rather than origin, and felt that "mucking" about with wines doesn't highlight purity of site.
